

Getting Ready to Read

Pilots go through a checklist before they begin flying. You too should use a checklist to make sure you are ready to read.

Titles:

1. What's the title?
2. What predictions about content can I make from the title?
3. What predictions can I make from the subheadings?

Vocabulary:

4. Is there a list of vocabulary word or key terms I need to look over before I read?
5. Did I divide the vocabulary into words I know, words I've heard, and words I don't know at all?

Special Features:

6. What do the maps, charts, illustrations, or timelines tell me?
7. Did I review the information from section openers?
8. What is my purpose for reading? What am I supposed to be learning?

As I Read

Use the following questions to help clarify meaning as you read.

Visualizing:

Can I picture this in my mind?
What word help me create this picture?

Connecting:

How is this (detail) like some other (detail)? How is this (person/character) like another?

Questioning:

What part has confused me? What names or terms do I need to review or reread? Can I put events in the right time order?

Clarifying:

Should I reread? Read on? Can I point to where I am confused? Can I explain what is confusing me? Should I look at the graphics again? Would looking up a word in a dictionary help? Should I ask for help?

Seeing Relationships:

Do I understand the causes or effect of this event? The problem? The solution?

Inferring:

What are the big ideas? What conclusions can I make on my own?

Summarizing:

Can I discuss what I have just read in my own words? Can I determine the important from the interesting (details/facts/events) that I have read?

I am confused about...
